Welcome to Biscayne National Park

Biscayne is not very far from the lights and excitement of downtown Miami. But it has a very different atmosphere from the big city. Established as a national monument in 1968, Biscayne National Park includes the northern part of the world-famous Florida Keys which are low-lying islands or reefs.

Biscayne National Park

If you enjoy water, Biscayne is the park for you. You will find the threatened huge, gentle West Indian manatee, the less gentle American crocodile, several kinds of sea turtles and over 500 species of fish. Four ecosystems come together here, which is what makes the park so diverse. The blending ecosystems create "edge communities".

Human history

Human history at Biscayne begins more than 10, 000 years ago. Scientists say evidence of the area's earliest people is mostly underwater now and learn about these people by examining the hills of shells they left behind. As the population grew, it divided into separate cultures. The groups began making pottery and created trade networks. These Native Americans are called the Tequesta. The Tequesta depended on the rich food source of the sea to survive. They were not centered on farming and had more time than other natives for art and religion. The reefs and rough waters made it difficult for early explorers resulting in more than 50 shipwrecks. Scuba divers today can explore six of them.

Exploring the park

Many visitors to Biscayne National Park choose to explore underwater. Guides lead snorkeling and scuba diving trips. At Boca Chita Key, visitors can explore a lighthouse, a symbol of Biscayne National Park built in the 1930s. But visitors to Biscayne National Park probably are not there to see skyscrapers and city lights. The beauty in Biscayne is quiet waters, rustling mangroves.

21. What is the feature of the ecosystem in the Biscayne National Park?

A. The different species of the animals.

B. The mixed biological communities.

C. The low-lying islands or reefs.

D. The clear and warm waters.

22. What can we know from the last two paragraphs?

A. Human history dates back to more than 50, 000 years ago.

B. The Native Americans prefer farming to fishing.

C. Biscayne is a paradise for the water sports enthusiasts.

D. Scuba divers today are to see skyscrapers and city lights.

23. Where is the text most probably taken from?

A. A personal diary. B. A geography textbook.

C. A travel magazine. D. A book review.

Gong Linna, renowned Chinese musician and the founder of Chinese New Art Music, put her music teaching methods into practice for the first time at the Tracing Roots practice concert and music festival of the Affiliated High School of Peking University on May 23.

The first song of the concert, Search High and Low, is an allusion(暗指) to the classical poem Li Sao,"The road ahead will be long. I shall search high and low."“It's arranged to be sung by all performers, indicating that we should all search high and low for our roots," says Gong.

To explore the education and the popularization of Chinese music, in 2017, Gong established a research and development team, which includes ethnomusicologist(民族音乐学家),Du Yaxiong,and music historian, Zhao Zhongming, to reflect on her music teaching methods and summarize the vocal skills of Chinese music.

Gong believed that the popularization of Chinese music should rely on primary and secondary schools rather than music academies. The children's passion for music and their outstanding performance amazed Gong, "When singing, they are completely lost in the music. Music brings light and richness to one's world. So, learning to sing is never about passing examinations, but about enjoying the music."

Lu Yueming, instructor of the school's art center, said, "The children worked really hard and kept Gong's instructions in mind. Seeing their performance, I know that they truly fell in love with traditional Chinese music."

"Seeing the children perform my pieces, I realized I should write more songs for them," said Lao Luo, Gong's husband proudly. "It's a great encouragement for me to see how much they like the songs, and they really need content related to Chinese culture." With an international vision, Gong will continue to write songs based on Chinese folk music or ancient poems.

Gong said children should learn about the beauty of Chinese music. Only when you know about your own sounds, can you have cultural confidence.

24. What did Gong try for the first time according to Paragraph 1?

A. Visiting Peking University.

B. Asking students to sing together with her.

C. Reading the classical poem Li Sao to the audience.

We would like to take a look at cashew nuts. If you have been lucky enough to taste one, you will know just how delicious they are. Once you begin eating cashews, it's very difficult to stop.

Here's something you may not have known about cashew nuts until now. The cashew nut that you eat is not a nut at all. It's the seed that grows inside a single nut found beneath a cashew apple from the cashew tree. The red or yellow cashew fruit does not contain any seeds. Technically, that means they are not actually a fruit — even though they look like one. They taste a little like mango with a bit of grapefruit. It is unlikely that you will ever see one outside of Brazil because its skin is very thin. They do not travel well. In Brazil, they are eaten raw, drunk as a juice or turned into a delicious jam.

The nut is very hard. You have to be very careful if you open it. It contains a poison that can badly burn your skin if you come into contact with it. To remove this, the nut has to be roasted at a high temperature for 20 minutes before it is opened. Once roasted, the nut is ready and the cashew is taken out. It has a thin skin around it. This is peeled off carefully to make sure the cashew is not broken. The cashew is then roasted once more in coconut oil for 5 minutes. Then it's ready to eat. What has just been described is a long process. This is why cashews are expensive.

Cashews are eaten all over the world. They are also popular ingredients in different styles of cooking, especially in Southeast Asia. Cashews can be found in nut butter, ice cream, cashew milk and also cheese spread! We are thankful to the Portuguese who discovered the cashew tree in Brazil. If it had not been for them, the Brazilians may have kept cashews all to themselves.

28. What is a disadvantage of a cashew fruit?

A. It is smelly. B. It is in limited use.

C. It is easily damaged. D. It is difficult to grow.

29. Why is the cashew nut heated at a high temperature?

A. To harden the nut. B. To let it taste good.

C. To make it easy to store. D. To get rid of the poison in it.

30. Which of the following can best describe the work mentioned in paragraph 3?

A. It is creative.　　B. It is effortless.

C. It is interesting.　　D. It is demanding.

31. What does the last paragraph mainly talk about?

A. The popularity of cashews.

B. The benefits of eating cashews.

C. The process of cooking cashews.

D. The history of discovering cashews.

Not many people know the fact but dyeing textiles (染色纺织品) are a huge factor in damaging both human health and the environment. Scientists in Australia may have discovered a way to solve this problem by making changes to the cotton plant's genes in order for it to naturally produce various coloured cotton.

These scientists have been exploring the concept of trying gene-editing in order to change the colour of natural fibers found in the cotton plant. So far, their experiment has produced coloured cotton in a petri dish (培养皿). Scientists hope that this means they can perfect the process in order to grow the crops in the fields.

Often the agriculture and fuel industries are closely examined for their influences on the environment, but the textile industry is not to be overlooked and certainly has things to feel guilty about. The textile industry contributes 10% of global carbon emissions, largely due to the rise of fast fashion, which sees 80 to 100 billion items of clothes produced annually.

This creates a large amount of physical waste and also contributes to other extremely detrimental effects on the environment. Cotton is quite the thirsty crop, needing 2,700 liters of water to create only one cotton T-shirt. That places extra stress in regions that do not have a steady water supply available. And, textile dyes frequently end up in natural water systems, darkening the water and disturbing the biochemical balance.

Fortunately, people's desire to protect the environment has been growing over time and more and more people are turning to more sustainable fashion choices. Larger brands have an eye on these trends and are also promising to try to develop more water-free dyeing technologies.

32. How may scientists in Australia solve the problem caused by dyeing textiles?

A. By dyeing the cotton before it is collected.

B. By discovering natural plant-based textile fibers.

C. By transforming the dyes into eco-friendly ones.

D. By changing the cotton's genes.

33. What does the third paragraph intend to tell us?

A. The rise of fast fashion is to blame for the environmental pollution.

B. The environmental impact of the textile industry should be taken seriously.

C. The clothing industry should be thoroughly examined.

D. The carbon emissions from the textile industry are limited.

34. What does the underlined word "detrimental" in Paragraph 4 probably mean?

A. Harmful. B. Short-term. C. Magical. D. Decisive.

35. What might contribute to the development of dyeing technologies?

A. Clothing producers' social responsibility.

B. People's consumption concepts.

C. People's awareness of environmental protection.

D. Large brands' desire to keep pace with fashion.

Sandro was born and grew up in Milan. Until he was 13 years old, he never wanted to leave his hometown. But last year, Sandro's father's investment went bad, wiping out the family and sending his parents to prison. As a teenager under 16 years old, Sandro was forced to go to Newcastle in the northeast of England to stay with his uncle Lawrence.

Sandro had a lot of difficulties in the new environment. He didn't like the food in England. Nobody could forecast the weather in Newcastle. He had to start learning the second foreign language in his new school.

Pocket money was not enough as usual. Almost every subject was a challenge for him. Most importantly, he had no friends. It seemed nobody knew him and he knew nobody in the school.

On an early summer evening, when Sandro was going home alone from school as usual, a man called him from behind. Sandro turned around and saw Eddie, his PE teacher, standing in front of him.

"You know, the school will have a swimming competition next month. There will be all kinds of races. Will you participate?" Eddie asked.

Sandro took a look at Eddie with doubt and answered, "You sure? Me? No. I won't. I can swim, but I'm slower than a snail."

Eddie smiled and then said, "Yes. Indeed. You are, in breaststroke (蛙泳), in backstroke, and in butterfly, but not in freestyle. So join the freestyle race! 200-meter freestyle is the game suitable for you."

Sandro was speechless at that moment. He had never known someone in the school was observing him and caring for him.

"I don't think I can win anything," Sandro was still a little puzzled.

"But you may get more recognition and consequently you can make some friends. That is more important than prizes," Eddie responded immediately.

Having hesitated for a while, Sandro agreed to have a try.

注意:1. 续写词数应为 150 左右;

2. 请按如下格式在答题卡的相应位置作答。

Every afternoon for the next month, Sandro trained really hard.

【解题导语】这是一篇说明文。文章主要说明了如何成为一个好邻居。

36. C　根据上文“Being a good neighbor has a lot to do with respecting privacy.（做一个好邻居与尊重隐私有很大关系）”以及后文“give neighbors a lot of space and try to sense when it’s appropriate to back off（退避）.（给邻居足够的空间，并试着感知什么时候该退让）”可知，后文提到了给邻居空间，说明不要对邻居的事情管得太多，尊重对方隐私。故 C 选项“最好还是少管闲事”符合语境，故选 C。

37. G　根据上一段“give neighbors a lot of space and try to sense when it’s appropriate to back off（退避）.（给邻居足够的空间，并试着感知什么时候该退让）”提到了给邻居空间，后文“Helping with physical work is one good way to establish trust. If your neighbor is going to be moving some heavy furniture, or needs help in fixing something you know your way around, offer to help out.（帮忙做体力活是建立信任的好方法。如果你的邻居要搬一些很重的家具，或者需要你帮忙修理一些你熟悉的东西，你可以伸出援手）”则提到给予帮助，可知本句与上文构成转折，故 G 选项“但是知道什么时候提供帮助也同样重要”符合语境，故选 G。

Don’t mess around—be a kind and responsible pet owner.（没有什么比把自家草坪当厕所的狗，或者被拴在后院不停地吠叫更让邻居们恼火的了。不要浪费时间——做一个善良、负责任的宠物主人）”可知，后文提到了宠物乱上厕所的情况，说明宠物主人需要注意宠物的卫生打扫。故 B 选项“这包括打扫卫生”符合语境，故选 B。

40. A　根据上文“There are times when a certain level of noise is fine and there are times when it isn’t.（有些时候，一定程度的噪音是可以接受的，有些时候则不然）”以及后文“Turn the music down a bit after sunset, and further reduce the volume as it gets toward 10 p. m. It’s usually fine to throw an occasional loud party as long as the neighbors are invited or have been informed.（日落之后把音乐的音量调低一点，在接近晚上 10 点时进一步调低音量。只要邻居被邀请或被告知，偶尔举办一个喧闹的派对通常是没问题的）”可知，上文提到了噪音可以被接受或不被接受的情况，后文则给出了具体的例子，说明要知道噪音可接受和不可接受之间的差异，故 A 选项“知道它们的差异很好”符合

语境，故选 A。

答案与解析

【解题导语】这是一篇记叙文。文章主要讲述作者通过自己的亲身经历意识到，学习像英语和哲学这样的人文科学也可以比科学和数学这样的学科更加灵活。

41. C 考查动词词义辨析。句意：从小学起，我就一直偏爱学习科学和数学等科目。根据下文"To me, these subjects, full of discoveries and ____, seem to play more significant role in human progress than humanities."可知，作者从小学开始一直就偏爱学习科学和数学等科目，因为作者觉得这些学科更有意义。故选 C。

42. D 考查名词词义辨析。句意：在我看来，这些充满发现和创新的学科在人类进步中的作用似乎比人文学科更重要。根据空前的 discoveries 可知，作者觉得科学和数学等科目充满了发现和创新，在人类进步中的作用更大。故选 D。

44. B 考查名词词义辨析。句意：如果没有正确的答案，我想，为什么要麻烦去学习呢？根据下文"By the end of class, I'd discovered that questions with no right answer can turn out to be the most ____ ones."可知，作者认为人文学科很多都没有正确答案。故选 B。

48. C 考查形容词词义辨析。句意：但我得到的是完全不同的东西。根据转折连词 but 以及下文"By the end of class, I'd discovered that questions with no right answer can turn out to be the most ____ ones."可知，作者上完课后感觉哲学课和他想象的不太一样，作者之前认为哲学课很枯燥，但是实际上很有趣。故选 C。

49. B 考查动词词义辨析。句意：一个穿着牛仔裤的年轻人，琼斯先生——"但是你可以叫我罗伯"这与我所期望的那个满头白发、衣冠楚楚的老人相去甚远。根据上文"A young man in jeans, Mr. Jones"可知，作者认为上哲学课的老师是一个白头发，系着纽扣的老人，但实际上是一个穿着牛仔裤的年轻人，所以这和他期待的不一样。故选 B。

50. A 考查动词词义辨析。句意：罗伯没有把我们拖入关于难以理解的哲学观点的无聊争论中，而是站在了我们的立场上。根据上文"Rather than pulling us into dull arguments about difficult-to-understand philosophical points"可知，老师并没有让学生进入到关于难以理解的哲学观点的无聊争论中，而是使学生站在他们的水平上。故选 A。

51. C 考查名词词义辨析。句意：为了谈论道德，我们审视自己所面临的困境。根据上文"To

53. B 考查动词词义辨析。句意:我突然想到,如果我放下偏见,我实际上可以从我曾经很少考虑的话题中得到很多。根据空后"I can actually get a lot out of the subjects I once thought little of"可知,作者上完哲学课后突然意识到能够从很少考虑的话题中得到很多。It strikes(struck)sb. that..."某人突然想到……"。故选 B。

54. D 考查名词词义辨析。句意:我突然想到,如果我放下偏见,我实际上可以从我曾经很少考虑的话题中得到很多。根据上文"And I always ____ thought of these subjects as more solid and serious than classes like English. If there was no right ____ I thought, why bother?"可知,作者对这些人文学科是有偏见的。故选 D。

语法填空

【解题导语】本文是一篇新闻报道。报道主要介绍了《电影里的中国精神:讲给孩子的中国故事》这本书的概况及其意义。

56. collecting 考查非谓语动词。句意:6 月 28 日,在北京师范大学举行的新闻发布会上,一本收集了 20 部中国经典电影的新书发布了。分析句子可知,本句的谓语是 was released,所以空缺处是非谓语。逻辑主语"A new book"与动词"collect"之间为逻辑上的主动关系,所以此空填现在分词 collecting,作后置定语。故填 collecting。

57. had been prepared/was prepared 考查时态和语态。句意:《电影里的中国精神:讲给孩子的中国故事》一书的主编黄惠林是北京大学一位经验丰富的教授,据她介绍,这本书的准备和写作历时三年。根据上文提到的"was released"可知,这本书已经出版发行,"准备和写作"这本书是发生在"过去的过去",用过去完成时态;如果将"这本书准备和写作用了三年的时间"看作是过去的一个"事实",也可用一般过去时态。又因为主语"The book"和谓语"prepare"之间是被动关系,用过去完成时态的被动语态或者一般过去时的被动语态。故填 had been prepared/was prepared。

58. an 考查冠词。句意同上。分析句子可知,此处修饰单数可数名词"experienced professor",且 experienced 一词的发音以元音音素开头,需用不定冠词 an,表示泛指。故填 an。

61. majorly 考查词性转换。句意同上。空后"honor"为动词,所以此处用副词修饰动词。故填 majorly。

62. examples 考查名词的数。句意:突出的例子包括《闪闪的红星》,它讲述了一个 11 岁的男孩在 20 世纪 30 年代初冒着生命危险加入抗击日本侵略者的旅程,以及《女子篮球运动员五号》,它将篮球教练的个人命运与这项运动的发展结合起来。提示词作主语,结合谓语动词"include"可知,主语为复数名词。故填 examples。

64. which 考查定语从句。句意同上。分析句子结构可知,空处及之后的内容为非限制性定语从句,从句中缺少主语,先行词为"Woman Basketball Player No. 5",指物,用关系代词 which 引导该从句。故填 which。

65. deeper 考查比较级。句意:黄女士说,她希望孩子们和青少年们能够通过阅读这本书和观看受到好评的电影,对中国的革命历史有更深入的了解,形成自己的信仰,并认识到自己有

责任弘扬中华文明和文化。此处需用形容词修饰名词 understanding，再结合句意和副词“much”可知，此处应填比较级。故填 deeper。

We will gather at the school gate at 4:00 p. m. on that day. The school bus will take us to the Qingyun Mountain. Bottled water and snacks will be offered. And there are stone steps up to the mountain top, so it won't be so challenging and tiring.

We'll really appreciate it if you can join us.

Yours sincerely,

Every afternoon for the next month, Sandro trained really hard. Starting position, starting dive, turning, pushing off, touching the timing pad, all details, he practiced them over and over. Whenever he was exhausted, Eddie's words echoed in his mind and supplied extra energy to him. "Maybe I can't be the champion of the game, but I can be the champion for myself." He spoke in a low mumble to himself after he finished the last training. Finally, the day of competition arrived. With the sound of the starting gun piercing through the air, the race began as expected.

Sandro dived into the pool confidently like other competitors. He swam as freely as a fish. 150 meters covered, he was left behind by 2 competitors. In the last 50 meters, Sandro swam magnificently, with his arms pushing forward fast, his legs hitting the water hard. Finally, the championship was still out of his reach. When the result was announced that Sandro won third place, however, other players congratulated him, the audience in the stadium bursting into thunderous applause. As teacher Eddie said, he won the recognition and respect from others with his effort.

They may keep these books for any length of time up to a fortnight. If they do not return them by the end of this period, they may be refused permission to borrow any more. The library has a reference section. The books in this section may not be taken away. The librarians there are warm and patient with us, always ready to help us find whatever books we need. There are a number of rules for behavior in the library. The students ought to put back the books in their correct places on the shelves. They ought to leave the magazines and newspapers in good order. They ought to handle the books carefully and keep them in good condition. Students may not talk in the library or disturb others there. They also ought to keep their voice down when they are passing along outside the library.
